Program Scope
Latina/Latino Studies is a unique liberal arts B.A. degree program with an emphasis on equity, social justice, and community empowerment. The program offers an opportunity to study within a multidisciplinary framework of knowledge to develop critical thinking skills, analytical writing skills, and an area of expertise centered on Latinas/Latinos in California and the United States. The program is designed to develop the knowledge, skills, and consciousness that empower students to function as effective leaders in an increasingly complex, diverse, and global society. The major prepares students for graduate and professional schools, for a wide range of public and private sector employment, and a lifetime of community commitment and involvement.

The Latina/Latino Studies curriculum is critical, analytical, holistic, and cutting-edge. Students choose an integrated series of required and elective courses, as well as General Education classes, focused on Latinas/Latinos in the United States. Theoretical frameworks address race, class, sexuality, and gender inequities historically and in the present time in an analysis of multiple marginalities, community resistance, and empowerment.

The Latina/Latino Studies curriculum favors a pan-ethnic and comparative approach grounded in the U.S. but sometimes following a trajectory back to Latin American countries of origin and the indigenous cultures and histories connected to Latina/Latino diasporic communities. The institutional experiences, social and national identities, cultural expressions, and resistance movements of Chicana/o, Mexican, Caribbean, Central American, and South American communities in the U.S. are centrally addressed. The program focuses on gender, transnational identities, global economies, social movements, and literatures of resistance.

The Latina/Latino Studies curriculum is grounded in our local communities. Our program is committed to community service, civic engagement, social justice, and equity. We recognize the importance of critical, socially responsible scholarship and community-based organizations and their empowerment through our own Community Service Learning Program. We also have short-term international study tours to Mexico and Cuba (Cuba travel suspended until the Cuba travel ban is lifted).

Community Service Learning Internships and International Study Tour
Supervised local community service learning (CSL) internships and international study tours offer unique learning opportunities for students that enrich and expand their academic experience. Students may earn up to 6 units in each of these programs toward the Latina/Latino Studies Major or Minor. Students participate in organized group fundraising activities to support their travel. Permission of the supervising faculty is required to travel. Students report back to the campus community, the results of the study tours.

Students are required to complete at least thirty-five hours of service as part of the major requirements. Local community service learning internships are available every semester. Students choose internships from a wide variety of community-based organizations, government agencies, research and policy organizations, and schools. Students may enroll in a 3 unit online course, LTNS 694, to complete additional assignments related to their community service learning internship. The internships are designed to enrich the academic experience and to prepare students for future careers as well as to establish empowering mutually beneficial contacts within the Latina/Latino communities of the greater Bay Area. It is a goal of the CSL program to instill in our students a life-long commitment to community service and civic engagement.

Students interested in joining the International Study Tour to Cuba must first pass LTNS 692. The Cuba study tour is designed to provide students with opportunities to interact with local people and public officials and to learn about the culture, social institutions, and community organizations in Cuba.

The Mexico Study-Tour
The Mexico Study-Tour travels in late May and early June, leaving the Monday following graduation. The intensive 12-day trip to Mexico City and Morelos is faculty-supervised. Students meet with activists from community-based organizations and schools to learn about grass-roots political and social change. Students planning to travel to Mexico must first complete LTNS 670, covering Mexican history and politics and Mexico’s unique relationship to the United States. This course is offered every spring semester.

Clínica Martin Baró
Clínica Martín Baró is a community clinic providing health and medical services in San Francisco’s Mission District. The Clínica was established by faculty, students, and licensed medical personnel from Latina/Latino Studies at San Francisco State University and from the Medical School at the University of California, San Francisco. Clínica Martín Baró offers service-learning internships to students considering careers in the health and medical fields. Students must first pass or concurrently enroll in LTNS 210.

Extra-Curricular Activities
Latina/Latino Studies fosters mentoring relationships with students. A range of support services is offered, including educational planning, advising, academic skills development, professional and graduate school and scholarship application assistance, and career development. Cipactli, a journal of student creative works, is published annually. Students are encouraged to become members of the academic Association of Latina/ Latino Studies Major and Minor Students (ARMMS).

Program Learning Outcomes
1. To understand and identify the origins and context of diverse individual and group experiences of Latinas and Latinos in the United States.
2. To develop an understanding of Latina/Latino Studies that is community-centered, reflexive, gender sensitive, and grounded in a multidisciplinary perspective.
3. To assess the historical and contemporary experiences of Latinas and Latinos with special emphasis on gender and how gender structures identities, roles, and relationships both domestically and transnationally.
4. To develop competency in the research and analysis of the personal, family, immigration, gender, and youth histories of Latinas/Latinos in the United States through the utilization of oral history and ethnographic theoretical perspectives and methodologies.

5. To be able to make links between content in the Latina/Latino Studies curriculum and practice in the community.

6. To develop an area of expertise and depth in Latina/Latino populations in the United States. In addition to the major's multidisciplinary foundation, we encourage students to sharpen their expertise in Latino demographics and one of the three broad areas of our departmental course offerings: #1 Arts and Humanities, #2 History, or #3 Behavioral and Social Science.

7. To develop competency in writing skills relevant to Latina/Latino Studies and Ethnic Studies.
