Select three CWL courses. One course may be a lower division CWL course. (Note: CWL 214 does not count toward the minor.)

Electives (6 units)

In consultation with departmental advisors, students select two upper-division literature courses that reflect the breadth of literary studies. These courses may be from departments other than CWL.

Note: Up to two courses (6 units) of lower-division literature courses may be used toward the total units; one course (3 units) of these may come from a non-CWL literature course.

All students in the Comparative and World Literature minor are urged to acquire reading competence in at least one language in addition to English.
